

"For over 50 years I have always kept Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house. My father often told me that it saved my life when I was very young."

In thousands of homes Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a household word. It has been used first by the grandparents, then by the parents, and now by the children. For colds and coughs, croup, bronchitis, la grippe, inflammation in the throat or in the bronchial tubes, is the standard remedy the world over. It contains no narcotic or poison. Accept no substitute.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

JOE COHEN BRINGING HIS OWN COMPANY

Impresario Joel Cohen will arrive in Honolulu at the head of his own company on June 18, ready to open up with a show at the Orpheum on the 22nd. The company is to be of twenty people and will have, as announced by the manager himself, "some class to it."

The company is to be headed by Richard Buhler, who is well and favorably known to the Honolulu theater goers, while another leading man, in the person of Frank Montgomery, will also be with him. The company is a two star one throughout, there being two leading ladies as well as the two leading men. These are Virginia Thornton and Mae Keane, both well known actresses. Other ladies with the company are Miss Mosher, Miss Albert, Mrs. Buhler, Miss Jocelyn, seven in all, including at least one dancer.

Manager Cohen promises with this company to give Honolulu the best line of dramatic performances it has ever had.

The opening play will be "The Climbers," further particulars of which will be announced on the 15th, following the arrival of the press agent, the well known Tom Bates.

NOTES FROM KAULAI.

The little daughter of F. Lohr, the Koloa engineer, met with a nasty accident last week. She was playing in the yard where a lot of trash has been burned and stepped in some glowing embers with the result that her foot was severely burned.

F. Lohr is beaming thanks to the congratulations of all his friends on the arrival of the seventh heir to his name. The boy is a big lusty fellow and according to German custom has the right to select the Kaiser for his godfather, but it is doubtful whether he will exercise his prerogative.

Bonnie, the moving picture man, came up by the Kinau yesterday morning with the intention of giving the Kaula public a chance to see his pictures tonight. As he has found that there are several other attractions to take place he has decided to postpone it until Monday night when the Lihue people, and others for that matter, will have an opportunity to judge of the latest advance made in his line. No doubt the Social Hall will be packed when the performance begins at 7:30 p. m.

Jockey Willie leaves for Hilo by the steamer Mauna Kea today and will be seen in the saddle at Hilo races. Willie is a capable rider and has made many friends in Honolulu by his pleasant manner and unassuming ways. He should do well in Hilo.

MARINE

The flagship China, Commodore Fieble, of the Pacific Mail line, arrived here yesterday morning bright and early after a pleasant trip from San Francisco. She brought but few passengers either for this port or the Orient, but had a very large general cargo for China and Manila. The Manila cargo, consisted principally of ammunition for the small arms and rifles of the troops in the Philippines. The China brought a large mail, over three hundred bags having accumulated in San Francisco since the departure of the last mail steamer. On the way out from the Golden Gate the China ran into some of the bad weather which has prevailed on the Coast lately and which has made traveling uncomfortable. But two days out the sea and wind moderated until the smooth seas and balmy breezes of the tropics made the passengers forget their rough experience of the start of the voyage. In leaving the wharf last evening the wife of one of the deep-water skippers in port made a very sensational departure from the vessel. The gangway had been put ashore and the lady was lowered from the bow of the big steamer on a Jacob's ladder. Just as she was landed an automobile dashed out on the wharf and a belated passenger who had been seeing the sights uptown with friends made his appearance. He made use of the ladder to get aboard the boat and waved his adieux to his friends after he had made the forecastle head.

LEE LET TELLS A TALL TALE

The Lee Let case will go to the jury this morning, the defense having concluded its case yesterday afternoon, putting the defendant on the stand to testify in his own behalf. His evidence, which is all that the defense had to offer in answer to the case of the prosecution, was to the effect that he had loaned the Chief Detective the $50 which Taylor stated that he received as earnest money for a large bribe, had loaned him the money as a personal favor after having met him twice before, and when Taylor offered no security for the return of the sum. In spite of the short acquaintance he refused to take any receipt for the $50, extending his unbusinesslike methods by stating to the court that no receipts were necessary between good friends.

So far from wanting to bribe anyone, Lee Let stated that Taylor importuned him to start a gambling hui, with him (Taylor) as a silent partner. He mentioned that Taylor had modestly asked him to pay him $1400 a week as his share of the hui's gains, but that he had indignantly spurned the proposal to have anything to do with Taylor and his schemes for easy money. He did lend him the fifty, however, without security or receipt.

DIRECTED VERDICT DENIED.

Frank Thompson whipped the froth of the case in a lengthy argument, lasting all morning, on a motion for an instructed verdict of acquittal. He picked out certain portions of Taylor's testimony as a basis for his argument, stating that Taylor's position as an executive officer had not been shown; that he had himself solicited a bribe and commenced the criminal proceeding, thus clearing Lee Let; that if any bribe had been given, it was, according to Taylor's evidence, not to influence his official actions, but to influence him into interceding with others, and that there was nothing to show in the evidence that Taylor had agreed not to arrest Lee Let and Lee Tong, nor had either of them asked for any promise of non-arrest.

Thompson quoted a score of decisions and precedents as fast as Clements handed him the authorities, making out a good plea on the specious grounds chosen. Judge Robinson, however, cut through the froth by announcing, as soon as Thompson had concluded, that he would rule against the motion without bothering with any argument against it.

EVIDENCE FOR DEFENSE.

After the noon recess, the evidence for the defense was presented. Thompson announced that he would depart from the usual custom and reserve his main witness for the last to allow the business men subpoenaed to leave as early as possible. The witnesses were to show the reputation of the defendant.

George H. Robertson of Brewer & Co. testified that he had had dealings with the Yuen Chong Company for fifteen years, although not personally with Lee Let. He had never heard Lee Let's honesty or integrity questioned.

R. R. Reidford, manager of the Bishop Trust Co., had frequent business dealings with Lee Let. He stated that Lee Let's reputation for honesty and integrity was good. On cross-examination he stated that the question of his honesty was discussed by the officers of the trust company.

Manny Phillips also testified as to Lee Let's good character.

LEE LET'S STORY.

Lee Let followed the ones who had given him such a good name, his appearance being followed by an exchange of remarks between the Deputy Attorney General and Thompson on the relative truthfulness of the coming and the past witnesses.

The defendant testified that he was manager of the Yuen Chong Company for fifteen years. The business of the firm amounted to about $100,000 a year. He met A. P. Taylor, he said, on February 5, Taylor came in of his own accord with Ayres and Lee Tong. He did not know what for. They helped themselves to some liquor, when Ayres and Lee Tong went out. Then Taylor said to him: "You had better start up some gambling games. You had better help me out and get up a gambling hui." "I was surprised and refused the proposition," Taylor went on.

into details with me. He said he would prevent arrests and would see that the police department would protect the gamblers, pay fines and attorney fees and all other details.

"After the conversation he told me to think over it. It was a great chance. He said he would come the next day."

"He came the next day and asked me if I had decided to help him. I didn't argue with him. On this day he asked me for a loan. He asked me for $100 and I didn't give it to him. Then he came again for a loan on the 9th, and asked me to help him, as someone was pushing him hard for a debt. I gave him $50 and he promised to pay it back."

"On that occasion he spoke again of gambling, asking me to get up a gambling hui. I refused. I never had anything to do with a gambling hui. I never told him I would give him any sum a week, $1400 or $900 or any. I never gave him $50 on his promise not to arrest me, nor Lee Tong for gambling. The only money I ever gave him was the $50 loan."

"Taylor came back afterwards to my store and to my house, but I never saw him."

Thompson handed the notes Taylor had put in as evidence to the witness, who denied ever having seen them before.

CAN NOT PLAY PAKAPIO.

On cross-examination Lee Let said: "The conversation with Mr. Taylor took place in English. I understood what he said. I had no difficulty in answering in English. Taylor never mentioned any particular game he wanted to start, but wanted all games. I know there is a game called pakapio. I do not know how to play pakapio."

"I first saw Taylor on February 5, 1907. I remember the date because through Taylor I was arrested, and of course I remember the date."

"I have tried to find Taylor to get back that $50, but I could not. I have never asked Taylor to give me the money back. Why does Taylor not keep his word of honor and pay back that money as he promised? I took no receipt. Taylor offered a receipt, but I said we were good friends and I did not want a receipt. I trusted him."

"You met him on February 5, 1907, and on February 9 you lent him $50 without a receipt. Is that correct?" asked Larnach.

"Yes, I loaned him $50. He asked me several times to help him out of his trouble and I lent him the money?"

"That is all," said Larnach.

READY FOR JURY.

The defense rested its case after Lee Let had testified and an adjournment was taken to allow the prosecution to prepare its instructions for the jury. These were taken up and discussed until half-past three, when the court adjourned until this morning, when the case will be summed up for the jury and that body left to deliberate and weigh between the diametrically opposite evidence of A. P. Taylor and Lee Let.

KAUAI TAX APPEALS.

E. W. Sutton, representing the Attorney General's department, will leave for Kauai on Thursday to be present at the Tax Appeal court on Kauai. There are two important cases to come up before that court, one the appeal of the Makee Sugar company, and the other an appeal based on the fact that lands used for the cultivation of pineapples has been ordered declared exempt for a term of years. W. A. Kinney will be present at the court in the interests of the plantation.

DAUGHTER TESTIFIES IN KOKI TRIAL.

Laulani Koki, a daughter of Moses Koki, was on the stand as a witness for the defense of her father before Judge Dole yesterday morning. The intent of the defense was to prove by her testimony that the defendant had been sick in bed and unable to attend to his duties between June 15 and June 30, 1907, and at other times, when she attended to the business, proving that Koki himself was not the only one who had access to the cash.

The prosecution filed as exhibits money order duplicates in the handwriting of the defendant made out during the periods named as those in which he was sick in bed, thus falling to disturb the witness, however, who acknowledged that the father was up at times. The witness failing to refute the cross-examination failing to refute her or shake her testimony, which, however, is not of importance as yet.

A. W. Carter, manager of the Parker ranch, was on the stand in the afternoon. He testified to Koki's good reputation and also gave evidence as to a loan of $1500 the defendant had tried to make.

THE DESPATCH LIBEL.

In the libel filed against the A-H steam schooner Despatch by George Mansfield, until recently her "chief mate and pilot," as stated, the libellant states that on the first trip of the vessel he took full charge of her sailing and navigating as pilot, having a license to command, while her nominal master, Eric Kokeritz, had no such license at the time. Under these conditions Captain Kokeritz had agreed to pay the libellant extra in virtue of his work as pilot. Under this understanding he worked until June 4 last. For that period he claims $250 as pilot fees, and another $250 to cover the costs of the libel. He also wants the amount due him as mate, $250 and more.

By order of Judge Dole the case is to be proceeded with without the libellant "providing any bond or security for costs."

George A. Davis is representing the libellant and E. M. Watson the agents of the American-Hawaiian company. The case will come up for hearing on Friday next.

Bonds were filed yesterday afternoon by F. Morse, the steamship agent, and the vessel was released.
